TimeBank members receive time dollars for their service. Any member who helps another member earns one time dollar per hour, which can then be spent on needed services from individuals or organizations in the network. Every member's time is equal and there is no monetary equivalent associated with time dollars.

Oregon Centennial Book. The plan for a book capturing the Oregon area's past, present and future takes a step forward this month with a call to Oregon Area Chamber of Commerce members to support this community publishing project. That support could come in the form of pledges of financial support, volunteer time, or simply advice or introductions that will smooth the road ahead for project organizers. Lisa Hustad, Library President will make a PowerPoint presentation on what makes this project of interest to local businesses.
